

PADEL AND SOCIAL CLUB CODE OF CONDUCT

Let's keep the spirit of fair play alive on and off the court!

1. Padel Etiquette 101

- Treat the padel court like your second home, but remember to leave no trace of your visit behind (except your epic shots).
- Greet your fellow players with a smile, high-five, or a friendly, yet competitive nod!
- Avoid excessive celebrations that could scare away the hadedas or confuse passing dogs.

2. Follow Court Rules, They're Not Just There for Decoration:

- Respect the designated boundaries on the court, unless you have a magical teleportation power (in that case, please share).
- No smoking or vaping on court. Only thing smoking should be your shots.
- No shovels or pizza paddles allowed—keep your game strictly padel-related.
- Snack-a-tack, we understand that playing padel can work up an appetite, but let's save the snacking for the restaurant. Eating sandwiches, sipping on smoothies, or juggling fruit while playing is strictly prohibited. We don't want to confuse the court with a food festival, do we?

3. Sharing Is Caring, Especially in Padel:

- Share the court time fairly. If you've had an exhilarating match, let others have their shot at glory too.
- We suggest you arrive a few minutes early, as we wouldn't want you to miss a single minute of your court time. Fashionably late may be trendy, but we prefer fashionably on time. And who knows, arriving early might give you the chance to show off your fancy warm-up routine or surprise your opponents with your amazing skills before the game even starts!

4. Dress to Impress (or at Least Be Comfortable):

- Wear appropriate attire for the game, Leave the unicorn and dinosaur costumes for special occasions, like themed tournaments.
- Takkies, trainers, tennis or padel shoes are the only footwear allowed on court.
- Oh and clothes are to remain on your person at all times. Scenes from Magic Mike is not what padel is about.

5. Communicate with Charisma (and Gestures):

- Communicate with your partner using secret hand signals, as if you're on a covert spy mission. Just make sure you're not sharing classified information.

- Encourage your teammates with positive words and friendly banter. Keep it light-hearted, even if you're losing!

Remember - This is a family-friendly establishment, so please keep explicit language to a minimum. Yelling at your partner, especially life partner, is strongly discouraged.

6. Love Thy Racket (and All Its Accessories):

- Keep your racket close and your grip tighter. It's your weapon of choice, treat it like royalty. Please ensure that your strap is around your wrist at all times during the game.

- Respect the racket storage area—no jousting or sword fights allowed – Leave that to the tequila paddles.

7. Spectators: The Silent Supporters:

- If you're not playing, become a silent ninja observer. Whisper your excitement and cheer softly.

- Remember, shouting advice or sharing conspiracy theories during the game is frowned upon.

8. High-Fives, Fist Bumps, and Victory Dances:

- Celebrate your wins, but avoid injuring yourself or others with excessive celebrations.

- Victory dances are allowed, but only if you can moonwalk or perform the robot flawlessly.

9. Clean Up Your Mess and Goodbyes:

- Pick up any garbage you brought or find on the court, even if it's not yours. Be the cleaning champion!

- Say goodbye to your opponents with a friendly farewell. There is more time to bond off court while sipping on a victorious beverage of choice.

10. Remember, Padel and Social Club is a place for fun, friendly competition, and unforgettable memories. Follow these guidelines, embrace the quirkiness, and let the magic unfold!
